PLANTERS HARDWARE CO.

INCORPORATED.

Rich Widow.

Mrs. Mabel M. Tienor, of South Bend, Ind., said to possess more than $1,000,000, was married Jan. 4, to her former chauffeur and private secretary, Harry A. Fred Wood, who is many years younger. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the woman's two sons, the older of whom, it is said, is nearly the age of his new step-father.

New Adjutant General.

Col. W. B. Haldeman, editor of the Louisville Times, has been appointed Adjutant General of Kentucky, to succeed Gen. P. P. Johnston, Col. Haldeman has accepted to serve for six months, after which time he will resign his business engagements preventing him from taking the place permanently. Col. Haldeman was formerly Col. one of the First Regiment.

All Goods Bearing The Diamond Edge Brand are Guaranteed

DIAMOND EDGE AXES

The class and style of DIAMOND EDGE Axes show in their finish and appearance. The edge is sharp, very sharp, and is tempered so truly that not one out of a thousand ever breaks or makes trouble. The DIAMOND EDGE Axe has not only the "metal" quality, but the well thought out shape that "sinks" easily and "chips" thoroughly. They cost no more than others, but are worth much more if the above qualities are considered.

DIAMOND EDGE Mounted Grindstone

A grindstone is valuable according to its usability. A one man grindstone is almost necessary. This grindstone is mounted accurately with ball axle bearings and ball crank bearings. The double treadle enables you to run this stone easily and do any kind of grinding. There are no pins nor loose parts and all castings are malleable iron. Try this the first time you come in the store.

THE BAIL STANDS ALONE IN THE NORLEIGH DIAMOND LANTERN

This feature you will appreciate when you try to hang them up. It is just these little things that make the NORLEIGH DIAMOND LANTERN so good. For instance the oil holes are big, no funnel necessary. Can be lit with one hand. When the globe is raised it is locked, when down locked, a lantern that never falls out. Don't go home in the dark. Buy a NORLEIGH DIAMOND LANTERN.

WIDELY KNOWN NAVAL HERO

Best Known Officer Of The Navy Comes To Sudden End.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, "Fighting Bob," to an admiring nation, died suddenly Wednesday at his home, in this city. Acute indigestion ended the career of one of the most popular officers in the navy. He was ill less than two hours. Admiral Evans, was born sixty-five years ago, in Floyd county, Va. He served with distinction in the civil war when a mere boy.

H. H. ABERNATHY

Elected Inspector In Hot Contest this Week.

R. E. Cooper, President.
F. W. Dabney, Vice President.
B. G. Nelson, Secretary.
H. H. Abernathy, Inspector.
W. M. Hancock and James West, Arbitration Committee.
J. P. Thompson, M. H. Tandy, T. B. Fairleigh and E. M. Flack, Reclamation Committee.

The Tobacco Board of Trade held its annual meeting Wednesday and elected the list of officers given above, most of whom were re-elected.

There was a spirited race for Inspector between Messrs. S. G. Buckner, N. A. Barrett and H. H. Abernathy, the latter winning after several ballots. The place pays about $2,000 a year, the cost of inspection being 25 cents a hoghead. Mr. Abernathy, who had accepted a position with the Forbes Manufacturing Co., will resign that place to accept the one to which he was elected.

BEWLY WILLING

To Disgorge Money Paid to Him By His Victims.

J. W. Bowly, the young man who is held here in jail on numerous charges of defrauding persons here and elsewhere on a calendar scheme is still protesting his innocence. He says he took orders for a man named Thomas Shane, who cannot now be found and that he was acting in good faith. His wife has been here some time and is working to get her husband out of his trouble. He offers to reimburse all of the people who lost money by his operations, paying them out of his own resources. Mrs. Bewly expresses confidence in her husband's innocence of crime.

Hair Turned White.

TROOPS ARE BACK HOME

Detachment of Company Ordered Home Thursday From Fulton.

ON DUTY OVER TWO MONTHS

Strike Troubles Have Abated And Soldiers No Longer Needed.

Capt. E. W. Clark and the detachment of 20 soldiers of Co. D, Third Regiment, were ordered home Thursday and reached home that night. The soldiers were sent to Fulton, Ky., Oct. 28, on account of troubles growing out of a strike on the L. C. Railroad, which resulted in the guards being fired upon by unknown parties. Quiet reigned while the soldiers were there and the local authorities agreed that they were no longer needed. The troops fared well in camp and all came back well pleased with their experience in preserving order.

NEW OWNERS FOR LIGHT CO.

Eastern Syndicate Has Purchased The Light Plant Here.

NO PARTICULARS GIVEN OUT

Trade Was Made By Chicago Attorneys--Shepard To Leave.

An option held on the plant of the City Light Co., of this city, by a syndicate whose identity has been kept in the background, was closed this week, after protracted negotiations. The same syndicate has options on the lighting plants at Bowling Green, Owensboro, Frankfort and possibly other Kentucky towns. The trade was made by attorneys in Chicago and even the light company does not know who the new owners are. It is believed that Philadelphia capitalists are behind the deal. No announcements have been made, except that the present service will be uninterrupted. Mr. L. M. Shepard, who has been in personal charge of the local plant for sometime, will leave Hopkinsville as soon as the transfer is made. The Company's contract for street lighting expired nearly two months ago and has not been renewed.

ASSERTS FISH HAS MEMORY

Novel Exhibition With Trout Is Given
by an Expert to Uphold
This Theory.

An expert in fish culture, who believes that fish have memories, gave a novel exhibition to support his theory.

In one of the enclosed pools at the hatchery under his charge there was a very large trout which always came forward to see and be seen when visitors appeared. It was the expert's custom, after calling particular attention to that trout, to raise his cane quickly and hold it over the water. The performance would have no effect upon the trout.

Then the expert would produce a light trout rod and appear with it at the side of the pool. Instantly that trout would turn and flee, hide itself at the far end of the enclosure and remain there so long as the rod was in sight.

This is the explanation of the sudden change in the trout's demeanor: One day, early in the career of the fish, the expert, to try a barbless hook he had devised, cast with one in that pool, and this trout seized it. The hook penetrated and passed through its upper jaw, and by the time it was released from the hook it had undergone an experience that made a lasting impression upon it.

The expert discovered soon after the hooking of the trout that whenever he approached the pool with his rod the trout would instantly dash to a place of hiding, although it paid no attention to a cane or other stick held over the water. The trout lived for years in that pool and never failed to show its fear of a trout rod as long as it lived.

MOTH MILLER IS VERY HARDY

Man Finds One In Library Book That Apparently Had Been Closed
Many Years.

"How long can a moth miller live without air and light?" is a question puzzling the bookworm.

"I opened an old library book the other day," he said, "that had the appearance of having been closed for a century, and on the very first page I found a moth miller. He lay lifeless for a few minutes, but pretty soon he began to wriggle. Now, ordinarily, moth millers are my chief aversion. I take a cruel delight in killing them, but I could not kill that moth miller. He played the role of liberator instead. His helplessness touched me, and I blew on him, flicked him with my finger, and after awhile he was able to fly away.

"Now what I would like to know is, how long had that insect been entombed? My curiosity carried me to the length of inquiring when the book had been called for last, but the attendant informed me that the book was in the reference department, and it would be a prodigious labor to trace the latest reader, so how long the moth miller had suffered captivity is still a mystery."

Pretty Sure.

If a man who has a product of his own to sell can continue to think well of it after he has interviewed two or three people who are trying to keep him from finding out that they really want to buy it, he is pretty sure to possess the elements of success.

TERRIER AND THE LIONESS

Little Dog Braves Wounded Wild Beast and Saves Life of His Master.

That victory is not always a matter of size or strength was pleasantly illustrated in the case of the dog that did his duty so effectually in the incident here related.

A man named De Beer had started early one morning for a journey on foot in Matabeleland, leaving his boy to pack up and follow him. He had not gone half a mile when he heard a growl and, turning, saw an immense lioness about fifty yards away and rapidly approaching. She was within twenty paces when he fired. The shot broke the beast's jaw.

The second shot broke one of her legs. The third, fired just as she sprang on De Beer, missed altogether and the man was borne down.

In a few seconds he was mauled and bitten and his left hand severely injured. There seemed little hope that he could escape alive, for his gun was out of reach and the lion, lying on him, prevented him from moving.

But with De Beer was one companion,
a little terrier. The tiny animal flew bravely at the lioness' ear, got a good hold and hung grimly on. This made the brute shift a little, and De Beer was able to reach his rifle again with his right hand and shoot the lioness through the chest. She fell dead on top of him, his left hand still in her mouth.

SULPHUR TAKEN FROM WELLS

How It Is Forced From Great Depths
in Louisiana by Means of Hot Water.

Within recent years Sicily, so long famous for its exportation of sulphur, has suffered from the competition of the United States. In Sicily sulphur is mined in the solid form. At Lake Charles, La., near the Gulf of Mexico,
a little over 200 miles from New Orleans, sulphur is obtained from deep deposits in the form of a liquid.

Wells driven to a depth of 600 feet in search of petroleum revealed instead a rich deposit of sulphur. To obtain the mineral hollow tubes were driven into the earth. Each sulphur well consists of three tubes, one within another. Through the outer tube hot water is forced down, and it issues through perforations near the bottom.
Through the central tube hot air is driven a little lower than the points where the hot water escapes. Through this third tube, inclosed between the other two, the liquid sulphur, dissolved by the water, rises to the surface under the combined influence of the pressure of the column of water and impulsion of the rising air. The liquid sulphur is led into wooden reservoirs, where it cools and hardens.

Ruthless Destruction of Books.

Napoleon was indirectly responsible for the destruction of a vast quantity of books. In 1812 he framed a law allowing goods to be imported from the United Kingdom, provided that the importer shipped an equivalent quantity of French goods to this country. French merchants generally met the requirements of this law by shipping books to the value of the wares they wished to import. Having served to gain the necessary permit, the books were thrown overboard on the way to England, as there was no demand for them here. Shippers could well afford to do this, for coffee and sugar were then about ten times dearer in France than in England. It has been estimated that books to the nominal value of four million dollars were destroyed in this way.

Cosmopolitan Community.

Confusion of tongues in St. Gilles,
the industrial suburb of Brussels, Belgium.
Here the Flemish, Walloon and German elements meet. Statistics prepared for the government on the language question show that of 63,239 adults who form the population of St. Gilles, 10,163 men and 14,213 women speak French only; 2,483 men and 3,445 women Flemish only; 90 men and 172 women German only; 12,595 men and 14,902 women both French and Flemish, 711 men and 795 women both French and German, 30 men and 38 women both Flemish and German, and 959 men and 643 women French, Flemish and German.

To End Log Rafts.

Columbia rivermen believe that the recent disasters overtaking a number of the ocean-going log rafts which were being sent from the river to California have been the means of sounding the doom of this method of shipping lumber down the coast. In support of this conclusion it is pointed out that the steamer Carlos, on her last trip, took out a deckload of piling from Stella.
Heretofore the great bulk of the piling from that point has been shipped to California in the form of rafts.—Shipping Illustrated.

Proving an Old Saying.

"I sure believes dat dere's truth in dat old proverb what says, 'Heaven helps dose what help demselves,'" announced Wandering Walter, the Weary Wop.

"Wot mikes yer t'ink dat kinder dope?" Inquired Ragweed Reggie, the Roving Reprobate.
"Becuz if we hadenter went an'
helped ourselves to dat cold ham in dat summer kitchen we'd never have seen dem winter clothes hangin' there!"— Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Getting Rid
of Annie

By Matie B. Whiting

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.)

"I am sure that this arrangement has not proved a success," said Mr.
Simeon Smith as he peered through the dusty window of the back office into the shop where a trim figure was moving about tying bouquets of violets.
"Not but what Annie is a nice enough girl, but I find it most annoying to have a woman about the place. Yesterday she dropped her handbag on my new derby and nearly smashed the crown."

"The day before she left three hairpins and one safety pin on the washstand," added Mr. Joel Smith.

"Her hat takes up all the room on one side of the office, and I get jabbed every time I move in that direction."

"And she always leaves the end of her parasol sticking out so that I stumble over it."

"And she's forever dropping her handkerchief for some one to pick up.
I ain't been on my knees so often since I was a young man," declared Simeon.

"Nor I," agreed Joel.

Beyond, in the store, Annie continued
to arrange her flowers and to hum contentedly a little song. She was a slight, good-looking girl, with wavy light hair and wide open blue eyes.
For her part, she considered the Smith Brothers' florist shop a very pleasant place, and her employers
the dearest pair of old bachelors ever found outside of a story book.

"There's just one thing certain,"
said Mr. Simeon Smith, "while I'm gone on my vacation you must get rid of Annie."

"Now, Simeon, that isn't playing the game fair," protested Joel.

"Yes, 'tis. I've thought it all out.
You're younger'n me, Joel. I'm willing to accommodate any time about the shop, and it's only fair you take a few of these jobs off my shoulders."

Annie continued to arrange her flowers

"I'm sure we've both been inconvenienced
long enough by this—er—misplaced
young woman."

"I suppose you are right, Simeon, but it's a kind of a ticklish job. I reckon you wouldn't mind if I thought up some good excuse for getting rid of her."

"Use all the excuse you want, Joel."

"I might tell her she isn't always on time in the morning."

"'Twon't do. Tried it myself not long ago, and she said she'd be more prompt in the future, and she was for a week."

"We might cut down her wages
and then she would leave of her own accord."

"No good. I did that same thing a month ago, and she said she'd try to do better work, so I had to raise her again the next month."

"I'll tell her she isn't accurate enough. She frequently makes mistakes in change."

"I tell you what will happen then.
She'll nearly cry and say she never was much good at figures. I say, Joel, you'd be a brute to discharge a poor girl because once in a while she made a mistake of a few pennies."

"Do you think that in any way she hurts the trade?"

"Not exactly, but I've suspected that one or two young men are buying boutonnieres lately that can't afford them, and it's getting them into bad habits. The Smith Brothers never wanted to make their money out of other people's foolishness. I dunno's you can tell her that. But you're smart, Joel, you'll find a way. Good luck to you," and the elder member of the firm was off to enjoy his vacation,
to the delight of his bachelor heart.

Four weeks later when Mr. Simeon Smith returned to the city he went directly to the quarters he had shared for years with his brother. It had always seemed to him that Joel monopolized
more than his share of the room,
but things seemed so strangely tidy that he concluded his brother must at last have realized how selfish it was to leave his possessions scattered about.

Leaving his traveling bag, Simeon hastened to the shop. After all, there was no place more to his liking than the old stand, and he was certainly looking forward to getting into the harness again. The swinging sign nodded a welcome, and the flowers in the window never seemed more fresh and blooming. Within the shop trade was evidently good, but, somehow, as he stepped within the door, the place seemed empty. He peered furtively in all the corners; of a surety, Annie was not there.

"Hello, Simeon," said Joel, pausing in his work; "back again, are you?
Suppose you've had a splendid vacation.
You are looking fine."

"So are you, Joel," returned his brother. "Work must agree with you.
I bet you've gained ten pounds. Turned over a new leaf, too, haven't you?
Where did you stow away all your duds up to the room?"

"Why, the fact is, Simeon, I've moved."

"Moved! For mercy's sake, where to?"

"Oh, not very far. Only just around the corner and up the street a way."

"Well, I declare! I guess I ought to have stayed at home to look after you. I see you have got rid of Annie."

"Yes, that is—yes."

"After I left you I got thinking that matter over, and I concluded, perhaps, we were a little too hasty. I intended to drop you a line about it, but I didn't really think you'd have the spunk to do it, anyway. I'd like to know how you managed it, if you don't mind telling."

"Well, no, I don't know as I mind telling. The truth of the matter is, Simeon, I—I married her."

"Bless my soul! Lord love you, you are smart, well! And I never once thought of trying that way myself."

"Was there with criticism?"

Mrs. Clatterby Had Something to Say Concerning Hubby's "Fine and Dandy" Housekeeping.

He had written his wife that he was getting along "fine and dandy" while she was spending a month with her mother, and he was more than ever convinced that housekeeping was "no trick at all." Her comments on reaching home were along this line:

"Why, Harry Clatterby, didn't you know any better than to fry eggs in the pan of my silver scallop dish? You have ruined the thing! And what under the sun, moon and stars did you mean by putting the eggs in a cut-glass honey dish after they were fried?
If I ever in my life— And what have you been wiping the dishes on? My best embroidered tray cloth! And you have been using one of my choicest embroidered initial napkins for a dish cloth! Look at it! As black as my shoe! And what have you been trying to cook in my chafing dish?
Beefsteak? The idea of frying beefsteak in a silver chafing dish! Why didn't you use the solid silver bread tray? Looks as if you had put the beefsteak in it after you had fried it! And here is my handsome, cut-glass celery dish full of cold and greasy fried potatoes! And what is this on the dining-room rug? A grease spot as big as a meat platter! You let a plate of hot steak fall on it? My soul! And don't you know any better than to tie a twenty-dollar lace curtain into a knot like they sometimes tie the tail of a horse? Nice way to use a curtain! And couldn't you do a little simple cooking without getting ashes strewn six feet around the range? Well, if this is what you call getting along 'fine and dandy,' I wonder how things would have looked if you hadn't gotten along very well!"—Judge.

Stating It Correctly.

A young lawyer was examining a stolid country yokel in a horse dealing case.

"Now, sir, attend to me, please. Did Mr. Smith sell the plaintiff a horse in June last?"

"No."

"What! Ah, I see, you are a stickler for exactness. Well, then, did Mr.
Smith, junior, sell the horse?"

"No."

"Come, come, sir, don't quibble. Did Mrs. Smith sell the horse?"

"No."

"No! Did Mr. Smith sell anything to the plaintiff in June last?"

"Aye."

"Ah! Perhaps you will tell us what that was."

"E sold un a mare."—Exchange.

Up or Down?

Senator Davis, in an interview at Ozark, derided good-humoredly the aristocratic pretensions that too many Americans, as soon as they get rich, assume.

"It's hard to be aristocratic in a democracy like this," said Senator Davis. "We've got no criterion, no measure, and hence, as aristocrats, we never can tell where we stand."

"Mrs. Dash is no longer in our set,"
a woman once said at tea.

"Yes, so I understand," said another woman.

"Yes," went on the first woman,
with a haughty sneer—"yes, she dropped out some time ago."

"Is that so?" said the other. "I was under the impression that she climbed out."

Fowl Repartee.

Turkey—You, peacock, you're just puffed up with your own importance.
Peacock—Maybe so, but I would rather be stuffed up with my own importance than with potatoes and onions.

A Contrary Course.

"Doctors' bills always take the contrary course of their patients."

"How so?"

"The more the patients are run down the more the bills run up."

A Cash Offer.

The Kentuckian has made a special clubbing rate with The Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the very low subscription price of $2.25. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South, and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer; $2.25 cash for both papers.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—

"Kentuckian"

A virile, newsworthy newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—

Technical World Magazine

is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to lull away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the facts of engineering and exploration, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says: "I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—

A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the press. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures, 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title. Printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

ALL THREE
Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas make this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

HE WAS A GOOD FORGIVER.

L. R. Sherwood, Democratic representative from Ohio, tells this story: A man had for years employed a steady German workman. One day Jake came to him and asked to be excused from work the next day. "Certainly, Jake," beamed the employer. "What are you going to do?" "Vail," said Jake, slowly, "I think I must go by my wife's funeral. She dies yesterday." After the lapse of a few weeks Jake again approached the boss for a day off. "All right, Jake, but what are you going to do this time?" "Aber," said Jake, "I go to make me, mit mein frau, a wedding." "What? So soon? Why it's only been three weeks since you buried your wife." "Ach!" replied Jake, "I don't hold spite long."—Human Life.

FUN.

"Now," said the chairman of the reception committee, "if it will suit your convenience we will conduct you through some of our greatest industrial establishments. I feel that it is safe to assure you that you will find them interesting, if not instructive."

"Thank you," replied the distinguished visitor, "but I would really prefer to put in the afternoon witnessing some kind of sport, if you have anything in that line that you consider worth while."

"Very well. We will go out to the race track. There are to be automobile, motorcycle and aeroplane races, and there is almost sure to be a serious accident."

Cotton Supplants Poppies.
In some parts of China cotton is supplanting poppies as a crop, because of the rigid laws against the use of opium.

WHY A MAN LIKES A DOG

Of Course There Are Other Reasons, but These Are the Ideas of the Suffragette Lady.

"Why does a man like a dog?" responded the suffragette lady, fiercely, and repeated. "Why does a man like a dog? Well, there are numerous reasons, though a dog is not a reasoning being. A dog will lick the hand that beats it; a dog will eat a crust and a bone and bless the giver; a dog thinks whatever a man does is right and proper; a dog has no rights that a man is bound to respect; a dog asks no embarrassing questions; a dog is always grateful, no matter for what; a dog does not ask the man to stay at home nights; a dog is satisfied to love the man whether the man loves the dog or not; a dog submits to any and all impositions without protest; a dog does not consider itself a man's equal; a dog lets a man have his own way; a dog doesn't want to vote; a dog is just as glad to see a man when he gets in at three o'clock in the morning, almost helpless, as if he hadn't gone out at all; a dog has no mother in sight, and a dog can't talk back—can't talk back, mind you, nor won't talk back. That is why a man likes a dog."

Finally Took Receipt.

The baron had handed over his wife's jewelry box to be put in the safe.

"I'll give you a receipt, baron," said the hotel clerk.

"Er—I fancy it isn't necessary," replied the baron with some hauteur as he turned away.

He did not get far at once. He seemed to be thinking. He shifted his weight first to one foot and then to the other, spending several minutes in this profitable exercise. Then he decided to go upstairs. At the end of an hour he returned.

"I have been thinking it over carefully," he said to the clerk, "and I have come to the conclusion that perhaps it might be better for me to have a receipt." He got it.

THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF REVIEWS

is a necessity to the busy man or woman who values being up to date. In a hundred ways its editorials, its character sketches and its timely articles will help you make your choice. It gives you the best, clearest and most accurate, non-partisan and unprejudiced news that money can buy. It is the great monthly newspaper on which intelligent people everywhere rely for their news, and you get this news almost as promptly as it is given in the great daily newspapers of the country.

Senator La Follette says: "The most useful, accurate, and impartial review of the age. I long have followed the magazine in its current line as a valuable source of information."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury
Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co., Testimonials free.
Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

BIG FIRE

In Louisville Destroys Property
Worth $400,000.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 5.—Four hundred thousand dollars is the estimated loss caused by fire that destroyed three ladies' apparel establishments, damaged the Baldwin Piano Company's store, slightly damaged the Courier-Journal building and caused a panic in two theatres. At 11:15 o'clock last night the blaze was under control. The fire started in the store of H. J. Gutman & Co. from undetermined cause, and soon destroyed the stock there and that of Abe E. Levi and Co. in the same building. It then swept to the four-story establishment of the Swartz Company and then to the Baldwin store. Panics in the two near-by theatres were prevented by timely announcements.

Three Little Girls and a Boy.

Quadruplets were born Jan. 3 at Hickman, Ky., to the wife of J. T. Bivens, aged 60. Mrs. Bivens was the widow of Tom Wilson, a night rider who died in the Nashville penitentiary. She was married to her present husband about a year ago. The four children are doing well. Two are much larger than the other two. Three are girls and one a boy.

Bacon-Southerland.

HE NEVER EVEN TOOK AIM

But the Tyro at Hunting Brought Down Two Birds, and Shot No More.

"Only once in my life did I ever do any shooting," said a traveling man, talking to a group in the cafe of one of the big New York hotels, "and that once I made a real hit. It was in a western town to which my trip had carried me, and the natives had arranged a prairie chicken hunt for the following day. Of course I was invited. I protested that I was out of practice, but they insisted that I go along, and some one furnished a gun for my use.

"As the only stranger in the party, they let me go ahead, following the dogs closely. I didn't even know what a prairie chicken looked like; whether they would run along the ground or fly. Suddenly I heard a tremendous whirr, the sound, as I came to know, of the birds taking wing. So excited was I that, without raising the gun to my shoulder, I pulled the trigger. 'Bang!' went the gun, and two of the birds fluttered slowly to the ground.

"He never even took aim," shouted one of the hunters, and my reputation was made. Thereafter I rested on my laurels, not attempting another shot throughout the day, or ever since."

MADE EQUALS BY LEARNING

With the Same Education, Men Will Lose Their Superiority Over Women.

Rev. Anna Howard Shaw said recently in Philadelphia of an opponent of co-education:

"Perhaps he objects because he is aware that equal education does away with man's superiority. The average man, of course, won't be superior to the average woman when they are both equally well educated. His assertions won't be accepted then unquestioningly.

"Indeed his assertions already are beginning to be questioned here and there. Thus there was a young chap at the seashore last month who on being refused by a beautiful girl said:

"You have broken my heart."
"But the girl, a medical student, laid her white hand lightly on his breast a moment, and then shook her head and said:

"No, there isn't the least evidence of organic lesion. I notice a slight palpitation, due, no doubt, to the excessive use of cheap cigarettes, but otherwise the organ is quite perfect."

Horse Pedometers.

The whorls of hair on the coats of horses and other animals are natural pedometers, inasmuch as they register the locomotive activities of the animals on whose bodies they are found.

The best examples and the greatest number of these hairy whorls and crests are found on the domestic horse. A notable instance is the graceful feathering that extends along the hollow of the flank, dividing the trunk of the animal from the hind-quarters. There are also crests and whorls on the horse's chest and other parts of its body.

A study of the action of the underlying muscles explains the origin of these peculiarities in the lay of the hair and furnishes the justification for calling them pedometers, although the analogy is, of course, merely superficial.

Mixed Patriotism.

Up in the Nineteenth assembly district they are telling this story of a fallen political idol. In the rounds of his social activities he attended an afternoon entertainment given by the Outdoor Playground association. Among the vocal selections rendered by the children was "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." At the conclusion of that hymn the political idol was called upon for a few remarks. He addressed the audience with emotion.

"Children," he said, "it does my heart good to hear you. Scarcely ever have I heard 'The Star-Spangled Banner' so beautifully sung."—New York Times.

Fine Horses of Mixed Blood.

Since the beginning of the seventeenth century Jerez de la Forontera has been the most noted horse-breeding center of Andalusia, for many hundreds of years famous for its fine horses. Jerez de la Forontera was one of the first and last Moorish strongholds in Spain, and the best horses there were all bred from famous Arab stallions, so that what is known as an Andalusian, or Spanish, horse has always a good deal of Arab blood; it has, however, been crossed with so many other breeds, especially Flemish, that today the Spanish horse is not registered in the books of record of pure-blood animals.

Expensive Bravery.

The manager of a shooting gallery patronized by women was glad to get another pupil, but he could not exactly sympathize with her husband's motive for urging her to acquire crack marksmanship.

"One night when she was staying alone up in the country a burglar got into the house," the husband said, "and she had to fire six shots at him before she touched him, and then she only grazed the tail of his coat. It's wicked extravagance to waste cartridges like that, and she's got to shoot."

WEDDING GLOVE FOR BRIDE

Third Finger is Left Unstitched So That the Ring Can Be Slipped On.

A happy era has dawned for the bride at the fateful moment when the ring is about to be placed on her finger.

Instead of the usual struggle to remove her left hand glove she will now be able to uncover the third finger without effort and without losing her composure.

This delightful result is to be obtained by an ingenious "wedding glove" device. The inside seam on the third finger of the left glove is unstitched, so that all that the bride need do is to slip her finger through the slit to receive the ring. The finger can just as easily be slipped back into the glove after the ceremony.

The device will be greatly appreciated not only by the bride, but also by the nervous bridegroom.

The story of the origin of the wedding glove has come to light. Sometime ago a girl who had lost her right arm in the hunting field asked for a single wedding glove.

She remarked on the awkwardness of having to remove her glove with the help of her teeth, and it was then seen that matters would be greatly facilitated for the bride if she only had to uncover the ring finger.

The experiment was so successful that it aroused the interest of other prospective brides, who saw in it a boon which would save them from the usual difficulties of removing a whole glove in the moment when the ring is about to be put on.—Exchange.

HIS SPEECH WAS GREAT HIT

Pumperton Thought It Was His Wit, But His Wife Discovered the Reason.

It was late before Pumperton got home, but his wife was still sitting up for him. "Well, John," she greeted him, "how was the dinner? And how was your speech received?"

Pumperton took off his coat, smiling genially. "Oh, splendidly, my dear, splendidly! I got there a bit late, when the others were already at the table, but I just slipped in quietly and didn't make any stir."

"Well, how about the speech?" she reminded him. "Did it make as much of a hit as you expected?"

"Oh, yes—more. None of the preceding speeches had been particularly clever, and they had hardly raised a smile. But I had no more than stood up and begun when they began to laugh. I went on, my dear, and I assure you, they simply shook. I never have seen any company so thoroughly entertained. I even expanded a little—gave them a couple of new stories that came into my mind. And when I sat down they cheered and clapped and laughed for minutes. I shall never forget how they laughed."

"Yes, I can well imagine so," his wife said sarcastically. "But the next time you are to make an after-dinner speech wouldn't it be well to put your vest on before leaving home?"

Her Idea of It.

Algie Graham Livingston is going to write a spelling book, some day, if they let her, according to a writer in the Cleveland Leader.

"How do you spell 'Yaining'?" she asked the other afternoon, as the big drops came down and spoiled her outdoor play. In parenthesis he said that she isn't big enough to pronounce the letter "r." Hence "Yaining."

Her mother gave the desired information, but Algie, whose proper name is Elsie, shook her head. Her big brother endeavored to assist her, but Algie roughly declined advice.

"Well," said her brother Bob, "how do you spell it?"

"H, e, double I," came the answer, like a flash.

And they wonder where she got it.

Fathers of Great Men.

The father of Samuel Pepys was a tailor. The father of James Mill was a cobbler. The father of Jules Verne was a day laborer. Oliver Cromwell's father was a brewer. Epictetus was the son of a day laborer. Socrates was the son of a day laborer. Giotto, the artist, was a peasant's son. The father of Plus V. was a shepherd. The father of Schumann was a bookseller. The father of Plus IV. was a peasant. The father of Cowley was a grocer. The father of Charles Lamb was a servant. Milton was the son of a copyist. Pope's father was a merchant. Neander's father was a carter. Homer was a farmer's son.

First to Practice Palmistry.

Gypsies introduced the practice of palmistry into England. This appears from a statute of 1531 called an "Acte concerning Egypciens," which recites that "afore this tyme dyverse and many outlandyshe People, callinge them-selves Egypciens, using no crafts nor traicte of marchaundise, have comen into this Realme and gone from Shire to Shire and Place to Place, and used grepte subtilty and crafty meanes to deceyve the people that they by palmestre could tell manne and womens fortunes, and have by crafts and subtiltye deceyved the people of their money."

Decided Change.

Miss Weston, Capitalist

By Claudine Sisson

There is an old saying to the effect that when a man goes fishing he doesn't know what may happen. Perhaps Mr. Guy Hilton had never heard anything about it, but he went fishing and many things happened that he did not look for.

Mr. Hilton went with a little party of three, and the quartette camped on Loon lake and fished. It was called Loon lake, because no one unless he was looney ever went there thinking to catch fish. After a couple of weeks Mr. Hilton was taken with chills and had to go to a farm house and call a doctor, and the other three broke camp and went home.

In two weeks the patient was cured and ready to follow. Then came another unexpected thing. When the doctor and the farmer had been paid Mr. Hilton found himself stone broke. When a man is stone broke he hasn't got a nickel in his pockets. It would be all right, however, when the penniless man got down to the village of Rockford. Some merchant there would cash his check on a city bank. He would want only four dollars for railroad fare.

Mr. Guy Hilton didn't look like a confidence man. He wasn't sly, sleek and slick. Like any other man with a fair bank account and a reasonable trust in human nature, he wrote out a check for four dollars and asked the leading merchant in the town to cash it.

"That game is too old even for this village," was the reply.

"Game? Game? I have money in this bank," said the astonished young man.

"But you ought to have it in your pocket instead."

"You can telephone the bank and make sure it's all straight."

"But of what interest to me? I am not here to help folks out of troubles they get into."

How foolish the stone broke man had been to apply to a stranger, when he could telephone to a friend in the city and have a hundred dollars sent up. He went to the postoffice, which was the only pay station in the village, and was told to drop 20 cents in the slot.

"Mighty suspicious circumstance"

"But—but I don't happen to have it," he replied. "That's what I want to telephone about—money!"

"I don't see how you can do it without the 20 cents," replied the postmaster.

"But I can have a hat full of money up here by to-morrow."

"Better have a dollar or two now. You won't find this town easy to work, and you may get into trouble trying."

Mr. Hilton went down to the depot to try the railroad telegrapher. A ten-word message would be 25 cents. No; no messages sent collect from strangers. They had got through that sort of thing long ago. When the stone broke man went to the inn. He had a watch that had cost him $150. He laid it down in front of the landlord and said:

"I want to stay for a day or two until I get some money up from the city by express, and this will be your security. Please provide me with a postage stamp, that I may write a letter."

The landlord hefted the watch as he would a stone, drew the chain through his fingers, and then winked a long, lingering wink and replied:

"Stranger, it was 40 years ago that I was a spring chicken and gobbled up gravel for corn."

"What do you mean?"

"Bill Stacey, the constable, will be around here pretty soon and I'll tell him what I mean! Bill can get on to a sharper quicker'n any other man in the state."

Mr. Hilton walked back to the depot with a resolve in his heart. There would be a train in about an hour, and he would board it, and if the conductor tried to throw him off instead of taking his watch in lieu of a ticket, he would fight for his life.

In the sitting room was a young lady, and on the platform was her trunk. It didn't take a minute to figure out that she had been visiting some family in the vicinity, and was going back to her home in the city.

The young lady was not so bashful that she kept her eye on the floor, or turned her back to show out of the window. On the contrary, she had more than one peep at the man and rather liked him.

er, and was also going home. She couldn't account for his dejected look and nervous bearing, but hoped he had received no bad news to take him home.

Mr. Hilton walked up and down the platform. Then he entered the sitting room and read the time tables and other interesting literature. Then he walked a block up the street and walked back again. Then he walked straight up to the young lady and said:

"I find myself—"

"Yes?"

"I find myself in an embarrassing position."

"You wish to take the train down, and you have neither ticket nor money?"

"That's—that's it. And—and—"

"And you are a stranger to these people and they are suspicious of you? I have money to lend."

"But—but—" stammered Mr. Hilton.

The young lady smiled and then he smiled. Then the young lady laughed and he laughed. Then she said:

"I lost my purse once when I was a hundred miles from home, and it seemed for a time that I would have to walk home. This will help you out."

She took a five-dollar bill from her purse, and extended it, but the confused and blushing young man shrank back, and protested:

"I—I can't take it. I didn't intend to ask you for money. I just wanted to tell you that—that—"

"That you were what they call broke," she laughed. "You want to get home, of course. How are you going to do it without money?"

"Will you cash my check for the amount?"

"Most certainly. It's a business transaction. Here is my name."

"Miss Fannie Weston," he read on the card as he prepared to fill in a check. "Why, my college chum was Tommy Weston. You can't be the sister he used to talk so much about? I am Guy Hilton."

"Whom he used to talk so much about that I got tired of hearing your praises? Yes, I am that Fannie, and just now I am a capitalist with money to lend. As you and Tommy were chums, and as I am Tommy's only sister, you had better negotiate a loan before that train comes along."

There was some one looking in the door as that five dollar bill changed hands. It was Constable Stacey. He had followed the trail of the suspicious character. When he saw the money passed and the two laughing and talking he scratched his head and said to himself:

"Mighty suspicious circumstances, and I ought to arrest 'em both and find out their little game, but as it's near supper time I guess I won't put myself out."

There surely was a little game in it, but arresting the pair might not have brought it out. It was six months later, when Tommy Weston had returned from South America, that he backed Guy Hilton into a corner and said:

"Now, then, tell me all about it."

"Why Fannie found me dead broke up the country and lent me five dollars to get home on."

"And on the strength of that —"

"Yes, I have dared ask her to marry me."

"Well, I'll be hanged! Say, Guy, you'll make a peach of a brother-in-law!"

Wise Goose.

The Covent Garden management requires a corps of geese to take part in Humperdink's "Children of Kings," and apparently finds it hard to secure a sufficient number of intelligent birds. A goose recommended in "A Book for a Rainy Day" would prove an acceptable recruit. "I have heard my mother relate," writes J. T. Smith, "that when at Greenwich in 1866 for the benefit of her health an aged pie and cheese woman lived there who was accompanied through the town by a goose, who regularly stopped at her customers' doors and commenced a loud cackling. Whenever the words 'Not today' were uttered, off it waddled to the next house, and so on until business was ended."—London Chronicle.

Cities Suffer by Comparison.

With a population of 7,000,000, London had but nineteen cases of murder during the past year, according to the report of Hon. Charles A. de Coure, chairman of the committee on criminal law, American Prison association. Five of the murderers committed suicide and four were never apprehended. The others were either convicted or executed or committed to the insane asylum. In Chicago during the same period 202 homicides were committed. Only one of the offenders was hanged, fifteen were sent to the penitentiary, and the others were exonerated by the grand jury, acquitted, discharged, or otherwise set free.

Rural France Losing.

At a recent French Congress on Rural Depopulation it was reported that in the department of the Cote d'Or which mainly produces wheat and wine, the problem of depopulation was a most urgent character. In the 50 years ending with 1901 the department lost at the rate of 840 persons per annum, and since the latter date and up to 1911 the decrease has been from 359,000 to 347,000.

The same conditions exist all through France. From 1846 to 1900 the urban population increased from 8,751,000 to 16,500,000, while the rural population decreased from 26,650,000 to 27,715,000.

Happy Microbe.

The microbe is tenacious of life, for Migula found the bacillus leprosus placed on a sheet of glass lived for five years. Germs of potato disease sealed in a tube were living after a period of eight years. In 1879 Ball, of Prague, after a lapse of eighteen years, infected a mouse fatally with some bacilli. Nestler investigated clod of earth stored in a herbarium for over half a century, and found 89,200 living spores to the gramme. Some earth wrapped in paper since 1824, and protected from atmospheric germs, showed on examination 19,000 bacteria to the gramme. Eighty-seven years is a ripe age even for a microbe.

Continuous Tungsten.

After three years' research work, a British concern has succeeded, so it is said, in producing tungsten in such a form that it could be drawn into a continuous wire one-thousandth of an inch in thickness, used in any length or bent to any shape. At the same time, its tensile strength has been increased.

Hitherto tungsten has only been producible in short lengths. The new discovery makes it possible to use a continuous wire in the lamp, so that the risk of breakage is reduced to a minimum and the life of the lamp considerably extended.

Bids for the construction of the two 27,000-ton battleships. Oklahoma and Nevada have been opened. They will cost nearly $6,000,000 each.

BUY YOUR GROCERIES AT FORBES' IN 1912.

Why not make this one of your "resolutions" for the new year? You want to save all you can, of course; that's why we suggest that you come and try trading with us once. There are other reasons too—and they are almost as important as the saving proposition. For instance—we have the newest and freshest stock of groceries in town, no old shelf-worn, dusty, dirty stuff; we buy in the largest quantities and pay spot cash for same. And as to our prices, although we "don't raise much fuss" about it, WE ALWAYS MEET COMPETITION on anything in our line. Now if you don't believe we do this, call us up at any time and see. We could give you many other reasons why we are "just as nice" as the other fellows, but we'd rather show you. So come give us a trial anyway.

NEW POISON

Is Causing Many Live Stock To Die.

During the past six weeks farmers in Hopkinsville and other counties have lost over 200 horses and mules by a disease known in the medical world as "erogenous poisoning," and the farmers are becoming alarmed at the situation. The disease is said to be caused by faulty corn and the farmers are unable to stop the poisoning. As the corn on the surface appears to be of a high-class variety, but on the inside of the kernel is a little black substance which is said to cause the poisoning. The effect of the poisoning causes the animals to perform queer antics, and after three or four hours of intense suffering the horse dies.

City Taxes Advertised.

I am preparing the City Tax list to advertise for sale all unpaid taxes for 1910 and 1911. This is on both white and Colored property. These taxes must be paid during this month or I will advertise same in the Kentucky New Era.
